World Clinics: Obstetrics and Gynecology (Endometriosis)

The 'World Clinics in Obstetrics and Gynecology' is a periodical that comes out with a themed edition every 6 months. There are three published issues now available. These are on the following subjects:

- Recurrent miscarriage
- Endometriosis
- Preterm Labor

The next issue on postpartum hemorrhage is slated for release in December 2012. The editor in chief is Dr Mala Arora and each issue has guest editors that are internationally acknowledged in that subject.

The authors are carefully chosen from around the globe with representation from Asia, Europe and America. This ensures that we get a global overview of the subject. The different management options in varied clinical settings also become evident to the reader, thereby affording a broader perspective.

The editions contain review articles on the subject. The articles have latest references and are well supported with colored figures, tables and algorithms for better understanding. Each chapter is followed by editorial comments which give clear take home messages to the reader in a concise format of four to five key points. The chapters emphasize guidelines for practical case management which are evidence based.

It is a must read for the practicing clinician to update his knowledge on the subject. It is also useful for the postgraduate students and teachers as it provides a review of latest articles published on the subject.

It is affordably priced at ₹ 795 or $40 and can be purchased as a single volume through the Jaypee website www.jaypeebrothers.com
